Kenſington, October 28.

THIS Day, about twenty Minutes after one of the Clock, the Prince of Denmark departed this Life. His Royal Highneſs had been troubled for many Years with a conſtant difficulty of Breathing, and ſometimes with ſpitting of Blood, which often endangered his Life. About three Months ſince a dropſical Humour (with which his Royal Highneſs had been formerly affected) ſeized his Legs, and moſt parts of his Body. This was attended with a Sleepineſs, Cough, and an encreaſe of his Aſthma. On Saturday, the 23d Inſtant, the Violence of the Cough produced a ſpitting of Blood, and an increaſe of the Coma, or Sleepineſs, with an Addition of Convulſive Motions of the Tendents; which Symptoms not yielding to the Remedies adminiſtred by his own and ſeveral other Learned Phyſicians, this Day, between ten and eleven, his Royal Highneſs fell into a Suffocation, from which neither Bleeding or a Vomit, both being adminiſtred, could relieve him; her Majeſty aſſiſting in his laſt Moments, as well as during his whole Illneſs, in the moſt Mournful and moſt Affecting manner, 'till he expired. His Royal Highneſs's Great Humanity and Juſtice, with his other Extraordinary Virtues, had ſo highly endeared him to the whole Nation, that all Orders of Men diſcover an unſpeakable Grief for the Loſs of ſo Excellent a Prince.

Lisbon, October 30. N. S. We have for ſome time been in great Apprehenſions for the Brazil Fleet, the Convoy which went to the Azores, for the Security of it, having returned hither on the latter end of the laſt Month. On the 26th Inſtant, 44 Ships of that Fleet came in, having ſailed from the Bahia in the beginning of Auguſt, and been diſperſed by ill Weather on the Coaſt of Pernambuco. About the ſame time her Portugueze Majeſty arrived with the Britiſh Squadron commanded by Sir George Byng, and the next Day in the Afternoon the King and the whole Court went on Board to receive her. His Excellency the Britiſh Ambaſſador made her Majeſty his Compliments on her Arrival, and the Queen took that Occaſion to expreſs her ſelf highly pleaſed with the Treatment ſhe had received both in England, and in her Voyage. There have been publick Rejoicings for three Days ſucceſſively, and each Night Illuminations and Fireworks in ſeveral parts of the City; the Court appearing in the higheſt Joy and Magnificence imaginable. On the 28th Sir George Byng having received Advice from ſome Frigates which he had left out at Sea for the Security of the Trade under his Convoy, that four large Ships, (one of which had three Decks,) were ſeen off the Burlings, judged them to belong to du Gué Trouin's Squadron; and fearing leſt they ſhould lye in wait for the reſt of the Brazil Ships, immediately ſet Sail in ſearch of the Enemy. A Party of Spaniſh Horſe commanded by Don Antonio de Leyva, lately came near Campo Mayor, in order to ſurprize a Regiment of Foot which lay there; but upon Advice of their Approach, the Marquis de Haſa put himſelf at the Head of a Detachment of Portugueſe Horſe, and charging the Spaniards, drove them over the Caya, and took Don Antonio with 80 of his Men Priſoners. The Armies on each ſide of the Frontier are March'd into Winter Quarters. Three Dutch Capers are come into this Port from Newfoundland, where they have deſtroyed the French Fiſhery, and brought from thence ſeveral Prizes, among which is the Chetter Man of War, formerly taken from the Engliſh.

Stockholm, October 7. N. S. We hear by ſome Ships lately come from the other ſide of the Baltick Sea, that his Swediſh Majeſty, inſtead of marching directly towards Moſcow, has turned his Courſe into the Country of Ukraine; in order to oblige the Neighbouring Coſſacks to declare for him, and penetrate that Way into the Czar's Territories. Letters from Finland ſay, that a Body of 5000 Men, which was ordered to march from thence toward Petersburg, to alarm the Muſcovites in thoſe Parts, after a ſharp Engagement with the Enemy, wherein each ſide loſt about 500 Men, is returning back to Wyburg for want of Proviſions. Thoſe Letters add, that half the Men of the four Saxon Battalions, which are in our Service, deſerted to the Enemy on that occaſion.

Falmouth, October 25. This Day the States of Zealand and the Diana Privateers, brought in as Prizes the St. Etienne of and from Rochel, laden with Merchant Goods and Proviſions, bound for St. Domingo, carrying 20 Guns, and 50 Men; as alſo the Croiſeur, and the Vierge de Grace, both of and for St. Malo, laden with dry Fiſh from Newfoundland, and the Louis of and from Nants, laden with Salt, bound for Placentia. Came in alſo the Tryal Gally of and for London, laden with Wine from Viana; and the John and Peter Brigantine of and from Boſton, laden with Sugar, Oyl and Logwood, bound for London.

Dartmouth, October 26. This Day came in here a Swede of and for Stockholm laden with Salt, from Rochell.

Plimouth, October 26. Yeſterday came in a Dane bound for the Canaries, and three Dutch Ships from France. This Day came in alſo two Spaniards from Bilboa, and a Swede and two other Dutch Ships from France.

Portſmouth, October 28. There are at Spithead her Majeſty's Ships the Albemarle, Ranelaugh, Sterling-Caſtle, Elizabeth, Cambridge, Sunderland, Captain, and the Swallow-Prize.

Yarmouth, October 29. Yeſterday came into our Road the Moſes Gally from the River of Thames, in order to lade Herrings for Leghorn. This Day paſs'd through our Road a Fleet of Coaſters to the Northward with their Convoys.

Deal, October 30. On the 28th Inſtant came in here a Dutch Man of War; and yeſterday came in a Dutch Gailiot-Boy, and two Ships from Oſtend.

London, October 29. Yeſterday Sir Charles Duncomb, Elected Lord Mayor of this City, was ſworn at Guildhall; and this Day was ſworn in the Court of Exchequer. The publick Solemnities which are uſual on that occaſion being omitted, by reaſon of the Death of his Royal Highneſs.

In purſuance of an Order in Council at Whitehall, Notice is hereby given, That the Publick Mourning for the Death of his Royal Highneſs Prince George of Denmark, ſhall commence upon Sunday the 7th Day of November next.
